

ALEXANDRIA. VA MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 2.

Though all the present members of Mr. Harrison's cabinet, except Mr. Blaine, are too narrow-minded to be anything else than intensely sectional, Mr. Noble, of the Interior Department, is probably more so than any of the others. He is now withholding the money from the one southern State that divides the sum appropriated to it under the bill for the more complete endowment of agricultural and mechanical colleges, according to its white and negra population, and says that in any dispute between white and colored colleges in the South he will always take the part of the latter.

MR. ROBERT INGERSOLL says "he supposes the Force bill is dead, but that we must have fair elections if the government is to stand, and that the opposition of the South tells the whole story." As Mr. In gersoll not only disbelieves to the Caristian, or in any other sort of religion, but tries to make young people do the same, it is no wonder that he doesn't believe the South is as solicitous for good government and fair elections as any other part of the country. or that he should malige her people when ever he has a chance to do so.

THE McKinley teriff bill reduces the duty on sealskin sacques ten per cent., but increases that on plash sacques eighty per cent. The rich women wear the former, the poor women the latter. And yet the protectionists say the bill referred to in for the benefit of the poor people of the country. But Mr. Harrison says a cheep man is found under a cheap coat, and doubtiess he and General Grant matical Congress making the birthdays of President Lincoln and General Grant matical Congress. says the same of women. Mr Harrison is a great man !

PRESIDENT HARRISON, in his measure to Congress, said: "Tos properation of the general appropriation blils snou'd be conduoted with the greatest care and closest scrutiny." And yet Mr. Harrison, by insisting on the passage of the Force bill, consumed so much of the session that the bills referred to have to be rushed through with stave off the necessity for an extra session.

THE LATEST intelligence from the Chicago fair is to the effect that that fair will be a failure whether the southern States patronize it or not, as its funds are so short that already a proposition has been made to increase them by mortgaging the possible gate receipts. It is becoming more and more apparent that a great mistake was made when Ohloago was selected as the site of the proposed fair.

DURING Mr. Cleveland's administration the democrats made an effort to prolong the short sessions of Congress to the end of April. They were defeated; but that defeat, like many others, was a blessing in dispulse, for had they succeeded, the republican Senators in this Congress need not have introduced their objectionable geg rule, and would have had plenty of time to pess their by ex-President Cleveland. "I only Force bill. #

IF Senator Gorman or Gov. Hill be sleeted President in '92, the civil service law will not be executed, as it is now, so as to exolude Virginiane from appointment under It, for the assigned reason that their State's quota is filled, though it is well known that the larger part of that quota is composed of people from other States.

MR. ROBERT INGERSOLL says "Governor Hill can get more votes than any democrat in New York, but he doeen't think he can prevent the nomination of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland." If the nomination were made now, there is a team in Maryland that would win the race hands down.

IT IS HOPED that the ground-hog, monax or woodchuck, which saw its shadow to-day, may follow the example of its two-legged cousin in Washington, who saw his last Monday, and not go into its hole for the next six weeks.

Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis in her new seria; story for boys, "Kent Hampden," which is now being published in "The Youth's Companion," deseribes in a most entertaining manner the life in the South during the early years of this Century. Mrs. Davis spent part of her life in western Virgin-ia, and has woven into the story enough of history and tradition to make it of unusual interest to the inhabitants of that section. The W. P. Snyder, are especially good. The illustrations, by

Cleveland and Hill Meet

State Senator William L. Brown, of New York, gave a banquet Saturday evening to the governors of the Manhattan club and a number of friends, including Governor Hill, no care, and even less scratiny, in order to Lieutenant-Governor Jones and ex-Presi- in 1896. dent Cleveland. Gov. Hill was late in attending and he and Mr. Clove and met for the first time in two years at the table, the talk being most cordial.

It being purely a social affair, there were co set toasts, but upon the completion of the dinner Colonel Brown made a happy little speech, and was followed with a short speech by Mr. Cleveland, Governor Hill followed Mr. Cleveland.

Mr. Cieveland spoke some words of praise upon Governor Hill's record as the executive of the S'ate, and said that as a Senator he went to Washington with the promise of the brightest of careers before him. In the sphere to which the Governor had been called to serve be would, without doubt, show the same ability and integrity that he had a'ready shown in his bigh office at Albany. In conclusion, Mr. Cleveland offered the Secator-elect his sincere congratulations, and proposed his health, which was drunk after loud applause.

In responding, Governor Hill returned with interest all the compliments paid him eaid he, 'that on leaving the high office to which I am called at Washington, I shall leave behind me as fine a record as made by ex-President Cleveland. After pointing to Mr. Cleveland's administration as a model example of democratic government, Governor Hill proposed the ex-President's health, which was drunk standing.

Conversation afterward became general in its character, and Mr. Creveland and Governor Hill met when the guests had left the table and bad a long and friendly chat.

The Portugese Revolution The "revolution" at Oporto, Portugal, on Saturday, mentioned in the GAZSTTE of that day was quickly brought to an end and the "republic," lasted but a faw hours Shortly after the beginning of the revolt the insurgent troops and a portion of the Fiscal guards, led by two non-commissioned officers, seized the Hotel de Ville (town ball) and proposed to there and then declare a republic. However, a strong bedy of loyal troops, composed of sittliey and fusiliers, promptly surrounded and laid siege to the Hotel de Ville. When that building was well surrounded the artillery opened fire upthe heads of the insurgents who defeuded the building. The bombardment of the Hotel de Ville by the artillery was followed by a combined, well-led, and cleverly-directed ending April 30, viz: Dr. G.B. infantry attack upon the insurgent's fortress. The fuelilers behaved grandly, keeping up a ratiling fire and advancing at the same time. The resu t was that, after a feeble resistance, the insurgents surrendered coadi tionally. The number of the killed and wounded on both sides in the fight at the hotel, and at once hauled down the flag of the Republican Club, which the rebels had hoisted on the building. Six or seven offi cers of inferior grade took part in the revolt which was of distinctly republican character. It is alleged that the civilian leader in the revolt was a lawyer named Alves Veiga. The insurgents will be tried by court-mar-BUBIAL OF LIEUT. TURNER. - A dispatch

The flags on the White House, all other public buildings, the hotels and other basiness establishmon's were displayed at halfmast, and the four fronts of the Treesury Dapartment were heavily draped in black. the late Secretary Windom. The streets in the vicinity of the church where the last rites were performed and along the route taken by the funeral procession, were crowded. The funeral was simple in character and without the least attempt at display. Tae only semblance to miltary honors was in the presence of sixteen members of the treasury brauch of the National Guard of the District. They acted as body bearers and marched behind the hearse to the cometery. They were the regulation uniform and were in command of Lieut. Richard Moore, of the tre surer's office. There never was, however, a larger purely civic fuceral in the city of Washington. During the forenoon the body of the dead Secretary lay in an open casked in the drawing room of the family residence on Massachuserts avenue. The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous. The President and Mrs Harrison sent a large wreath of viciets, illlies of the valley encircled by a band of purple ribbon, crossed with a sheaf of wheat; the Vice-President, Mr. Blaine and Secretary Tracy sent flowers. Secretary Rusk, the Governor of Minnesota, Mrs. Lewis Washington for ladies of the Mt. Vernon Association, and others sent handsome tributes. After the services at the church most of the flowers were, by direction of Mrs. Windom, distributed among the various hospitals of the city. The house was thrown open to the public between 8 and 11 o'clock and there was a constant stream of callers. At 11 o'clock the house was closed to risitors and soon after brief religious services were conducted by the Ray. Dr. Hamilo, paster of the Church of the Covenant (Presbyterian). FIRST PRODUCTION OF IVANHOE .- Sir Arthur Sullivan's esgerly-anticipated opera, "Ivanhoe." was produced D'Cyle Carte's theatre Saturday evening before one of the most brilliant andience ever seen in London. The Prince and Princess of Waies, the Duke and Duchessof Edinburgh, and in fact nearly all the clite of London were present. The opera was received with every demonstration of approval and is an undoubted success, though not at all above criticism. The critics say that it lacks the repose which should characterize so ambitious a work, and that many of the solos betray a straining after effect; but no one ventures that it is one of the finest English operas eve produced-English operas, be it always understood ranking below German and Italian. Some of the debutantes were nervous to an extent which mared their efforts, and Ben. Davies, the "Ivanhoe," insisted upon displaying a most obnoxious tremor. Nevertheless the occasion was a highly enjoyable one, and the new work is sure to be a source of great pleasure to the public and presumably of much profit to Sir Arthur and others interested in
